

USAID | BOLIVIA
DEL PUEBLO DE LOS ESTADOS
UNIDOS DE AMÉRICA

THE CURRENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The people of the United States supports the development of Bolivia

*Panicles of quinoa in the drying process.
USAID support to the production of quinoa
flowers immortalized.*

USAID/Bolivia: working together

The United States Agency for International Development (USAID) is in Bolivia since 1964, implementing cooperation programs distributed along the nine geographic departments of Bolivia.

USAID works with the Plurinational State of Bolivia's Government, local governments, private sector, micro and small enterprises, farmers, and its people in support of an equitable and sustainable development. The various programs are implemented by different organizations, the private sector and various instances from the Bolivian Government.

AREAS OF ASSISTANCE

HEALTH

USAID supports the Government of Bolivia and seeks to improve family and community health; the agency's activities are implemented in the rural area, especially supporting the country's most disadvantaged people.

USAID supports people's active participation to protect and promote their health, contribute to enhance the quality of clinical health services and offer technical assistance for the strengthening of the health sector at all levels, to improve access to quality health services for most Bolivians.

INTEGRATED DEVELOPMENT

The Integrated Development Program, lead by the Vice Ministry of Coca and Integrated Development, provides assistance to promote sustainable development, a diversified economy, and the expansion of social services in coca growing and associated areas.

The program activities are implemented principally in the Yungas of La Paz, seeking to increase the quality and marketability of farmers' agricultural products (coffee, cacao, stevia, honey, banana, aviculture, etc.); improve access to social services through social infrastructure investments (potable water and sewer systems, health posts, schools, teaching housing, etc.); and improve and maintain rural roads infrastructure including the construction of bridges.

*Young Leaders Health Program
"Tomando decisiones."*

"Flores de corte" Program supported by USAID.

*Environmental school fair Cohana Bay Project,
"Manejo de la Contaminación en el Eje Hidrográfico El Alto-Lago Titicaca".*

SUSTAINABLE ECONOMIC GROWTH AND ENVIRONMENT

USAID has an integrated program focused on providing productive opportunities through promotion of sustainable agriculture and natural resources-based value chain integration and market linkages in both rural and urban areas. This program supports local capacities to improve agricultural productivity, income generation and food security; promote conservation and sustainable use of the ecosystems' goods and services; and increase productivity and sales of micro, small and medium sized enterprises in order to enhance Bolivia's capacity to respond to emerging challenges and opportunities.